Re: Request of Confidentiality for FCC ID: 2AAIG-0725

In accordance with Section 0.457 and Section 0.459 of the F.C.C. rules (CFR 47), Vafara L.L.C. and its affiliates hereby make the requests for confidentiality below.

Short Term Confidentiality

In accordance with the F.C.C.'s Public Notice, dated June 15, 2004 (DA 04-1705), we hereby request short term confidential treatment for the items listed below:

Test Setup Photographs
External Photographs
Internal Photographs
User Guide/Manual

These items contain information about a product that we plan to start selling sometime during the next 180 days. We are seeking short term confidential treatment of these exhibits to prevent our competitors from learning about the product before we begin our marketing efforts.

Long Term Confidentiality

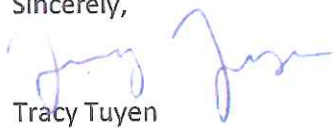

We hereby request that the application for equipment authorization and the exhibits listed below be withheld from public disclosure indefinitely:

Block Diagram of RF
Operational Description
Schematics

The content of the application and the exhibits listed include detailed technical and design information that are confidential trade secrets and highly proprietary. Vafara L.L.C. and its affiliates take all possible measures to limit the disclosure of this information to only those of its employees or contractors who have signed non-disclosure agreements and need to know such information to perform their jobs. This information is not otherwise publicly available. Disclosure of this information by the F.C.C. would harm Vafara L.L.C. and its affiliates and give competitors an unfair competitive advantage over us. Since our future design and manufacturing innovations will likely be based on the design and manufacturing information described in the application and aforementioned exhibits, we request that the confidentiality be indefinite in duration as the public disclosure of these materials could adversely affect us far into the future.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'Tracy Tuyen', is written over the printed name.
