A photograph of a small, white, rectangular electronic device, possibly a portable display or a small monitor, resting on a blue textured surface. The device has a white top and side casing, and a black frame surrounding a dark, rectangular screen. A metal ruler is placed horizontally below the device, showing its width is approximately 10 cm. Another ruler is placed vertically to the left of the device, showing its height is approximately 5 cm. The device appears to be a portable electronic component, possibly a small display or a sensor module.
