

Due to the small size of the module, there is no space to indicate FCC ID or manufacturer information. The OEM has indicated that marking the module may damage the shielding of the module. For this reason the manufacturer information and FCC ID will be documented in the manual.

