A photograph of a laboratory or workshop environment. On the left, a light-colored wooden table stands on a grey floor. A black walkie-talkie with a red base sits on the table's surface. In the center, a blue and silver electronic device, possibly a power supply or amplifier, is placed on the floor. It has a red emergency stop button and various ports. Cables connect it to a wall outlet with red and blue sockets. To the right, a computer monitor is visible, displaying a green and blue screen, with a black tower unit underneath it. The background consists of a white wall with a power strip and some electrical components.
