The modifications have been done to remove references to our Customer Proprietary & Confidential Use Case information for which this NB-IoT device shall be used by them. This is a specific Use case for the customer and does not modify any FCC relevant information on how to use the device i.e. how to connect, power-on and configure. Additionally, the sections removed included our Customer Proprietary & Confidential Static IP address and its configuration.

Removed Sections:

Section-2
Section-3.1
Section-5
Section-6
Section-7

These sections have been removed as they provided details of our Customer Proprietary & Confidential Use Case Software Architecture & procedures. These Software Architecture & procedures are our Customer IPRs that cannot be made available public and removing these details do not change any configurations or procedures that were used for FCC certification of Amantya Technologies NB-IoT device.
