Model Difference: The additional models have slight differences in exterior design. Some models retain the same USB plug-in design as the EUT but feature various optimizations, such as textured anti-slip surfaces, geometric cut patterns, circular openings, or airflow grooves, to meet different user needs. Additionally, some models adopt a cabled design, providing more flexible connectivity and adapting to a wider range of usage scenarios.

Despite the differences in casing, all additional models share the exact same core PCB board, internal circuitry, and chip modules as the EUT, meaning there are no differences in hardware functionality or performance.
