Tim,

The photos were taken after setup had started to be taken down.
There was a power cord connection during the testing.

the following was noted:

- 1) The device does not appear to be tested with any cables. The users manual supports the use of AC power adapter. Please review.
- 2) Test Photos for AC powerline do not appear to be provided. (although I'm still going through report and may not have seen yet...)
