The Starkey SurfLink Media audio streaming device is designed to connect to most media sources, including television, radio and MP3. Various cables are included to allow streaming from virtually any media device.

The SurfLink media device can be controlled from the device or from the accompanying remote control. The controls on the device and the remote adjust volume and range features, as well as selection for right and left and power on and off.

This submittal is to request approval for original equipment certification to Part 15 under FCC ID number EOA-TV.

Sincerely,
