QC890 & QC900 Difference Statement

January 11, 2007

To Whom It May Concern:

The QC890 is a standard product for general sales and usage.

The QC900 was a customer requested model number identifier for the same unit.

The specific difference is with the model number on the label printout. It is a customer special part number, there are no software, electrical or hardware differences.

Any questions or problems feel free to contact me.
