

Dear Rowland,

This is in reference to FCC ID: KLLTP-318 and the language in the manual for the RF Safety instructions. The language requires users to maintain a separation distance of 2 inches from the face but allows a closer distance (1 inch) from the body. It is our policy to treat the head and body the same because the same SAR requirement applies to both. Therefore, the separation distance must be consistent. Since a 1 inch distance is acceptable, the RF safety instructions must specify a separation distance of either a 1 inch distance for the head and body or a 2 inch distance for the head and body. Also, when the belt-clip is for storage only, this must be clearly indicated in the manual.

Please make the applicant aware of the above. A copy of this e-mail will be placed in the electronic file.