To Whom It May Concern:

The Remote Keypad (Model #898), manufactured by Kwikset Corporation, is a home security product which is used for residential access control. Public disclosure of any technical documentation of the design of the Remote Keypad, including (but not limited to) the theory of operation, the block diagram, and/or the product schematics, would encourage reverse-engineering of the product with the goal of defeating the security system and gaining unauthorized access to customer residences. Therefore, Kwikset Corporation respectfully requests that all technical documentation of the Remote Keypad (Kwikset Model #898) be held in confidence by the FCC.

Sincerely,

Steve Armstrong
