

Tune up

This device is designed for OEM installation and therefore does not have a tune up procedure. Each OEM is required to obtain their own certification for each device this module is installed and therefore will be required to provide a tune up procedure for that device.