The image shows a white, rectangular network device, possibly a switch or router, with a blue textured background. The device has a central label with Chinese text and a small 'Gigaset' logo. It features a series of yellow RJ45 ports on the left side and a single RJ45 port on the right side. A ruler is visible at the bottom of the image, showing measurements from 28 to 49 cm.
