With regard to the above, the listed information discloses design details that are commercial in confidence to Tacktick Ltd. Tacktick Ltd are currently the only manufacturers of solar-powered, radio-networked marine electronics. By virtue of Tacktick Ltd's combined technical knowledge and experience of solar cell performance and low-power design techniques, it is estimated that current competitors in the leisure marine market may take up to 18 months to reach the same level of knowledge. This is a significant commercial advantage, maintained by the non-disclosure of current design methodologies. To this end, Tacktick Ltd does not release the above documentation for public scrutiny either as part of the product documentation or to its supplier/dealer network.

Yours Sincerely,

Mark Johnson
Joint managing director
