Notice#1

Hi, Sam,

Please address following issues.

Q#1: Please provide the label location.

Ans.: Please refer to revised label format and location.

Q#2: Label format and user manual indicated a FCC DOC logo is used.

Please explain why a DOC logo is applied since there are no connection to a PC.

Ans.: Please refer to revised label format and location.

Q#3: Per section 2.1091, please provide MPE calculation in computing in power density to show RF exposure is complied and also add the required RF exposure statement into the user manual. Please address.

Ans.: Please see attached MPE test report and revised user manual.

Q#4: The schematics provided is incomplete. Please have a check and provide the complete one.

Ans.: Please refer to revised schematics.

Q#5: This device is a hand-held device that 3 planes of x, y, z axes are required to be investigated per ANSI C63.4, but there are no information indicated they have been verified. Please address.

Ans.: had checked the peak output powers of these three axes and found the worst case as show in the report. We will add the statement in the test report and the test setup photo and then upload the revised test report and test setup photo.

Best Regards,

Lucy Tsai
