EUT measures the temperature of the environment on a regular basis using CT (Current Transformer) or RTD (resistance temperature detectors) sensors, and it transmits this data to the server using a wireless sensor mesh network. Also, EUT transmits network related data packets such as health and route messages to maintain the network for data transmission.