

TX operation description

MCU resets when powered on. MCU gets temperature data from sensor and encodes it to transmission circuit. The transmission circuit modulates the signal and transmits it at 433 MHz.

The TX circuit monitors working voltage all time. If the voltage is low, a signal will be transmitted to a receiver. This info will be indicated by a LED lamp to remind users to change battery.