

The image shows a custom-built IoT module, likely a LoRaWAN gateway, mounted on a white PCB. The module features a large black metal shield with a grid of holes, a silver metal shield with a grid of holes, and a black metal shield with a grid of holes. It includes various electronic components such as capacitors, resistors, and integrated circuits. A ruler is placed vertically on the right side of the module for scale.

