Dear Hyun Chae, I have received and reviewed the reply and replacement exhibits.

The label location now shows the label located on the removable battery. This is not allowed per FCC requirements because the battery is a disposable/replaceable component. The label must be on a permanent part of the device and visible at the time of purchase (before the first use).

Inside the battery compartment is acceptable only if the device is small/hand-held AND the battery is installed by the user before the first use, because the user can see the label before they use the product. The FCC requires that if the label is shown inside the battery compartment that the applicant must also submit a statement that the battery is not installed before shipment.

The Parts List shows an item (5th item on the second page) that has a description of "GSM MODULE". You have indicated that the GSM Module is not available in this model, yet the parts list seems to show that a GSM module is available. Please explain this listing on the Parts List.

The items indicated above must be submitted before processing can continue on the above referenced application. Failure to provide the requested information within 30 days of the original e-mail date may result in application dismissal and forfeiture of the filing fee. Also, please note that partial responses increase processing time and should not be submitted. Any questions about the content of this correspondence should be directed to the e-mail address listed below the name of the sender.

Best regards,

Chris Harvey
