

Operation Description for R/C Power Whip

The transistor Q1 is a superregenerative circuit and it is responsible for receiver a radio control signal. After Q1 received the control signal, the IC U1 will decode the modulation signal and control the motor operation through transistor Q2 and Q3.