Response to comments from 24 Mar 2009

NCEE responses are in blue.

1. The label cannot be held confidential. Please revise the confidentiality letter to reflect this.

A new confidentiality letter has been uploaded. Please see WKS-WFV100-Authority to Act As Agent 2.pdf’ The label is no longer requested to be confidential.

2. Parts List and Tune Up are part of the same exhibit so please add Tune Up to Confidential portion of the confidentiality letter.

A new confidentiality letter has been uploaded. Please see WKS-WFV100-Authority to Act As Agent 2.pdf’ The parts list is no longer requested to be confidential.

3. Please revise Internal Photos to show RF board front and back.

A new internal photo exhibit has been uploaded. Please see “WK2-WFV100-Internal Photos 2.pdf” This is a supplemental to “WK2-WFV100-Internal Photos.pdf”

4. Users Manual must have Pt. 15.21 statement:

Changes or modifications not expressly approved by the party responsible for compliance could void the user's authority to operate the equipment.

The statement has been added to page 35 of the new user's manual. “Please see WatchFireVideo WFV100 Manual Rev3.pdf.”

5. Is the RF section a USB device that has already been certified?

Yes, the product includes an FCC certified device, but the previously certified FCC device was tested and certified in its own stand-alone configuration. The current configuration has removed the out-casing and mounting and placed it in a new one, therefore it needed to be tested in the new configuration.
