Inquiry on 09/08/2022 :

Inquiry:

Dear Sir

BM innovations GmbH (Grantee code: WRO) will apply FCC ID for WRO-BM-HRM2.

This is a Performance Monitor. Due to the size, appearance, shape and shell material of the product:

1)
The applicant silk printed the FCC ID number on the battery cover, and consumers need unscrew the battery cover to replace the battery (A 3.0V button battery powers), instead of USB power supply; Replace the battery and close the backcover firmly is recommended to ensure the Performance Monitor remains water resistant.

2) Considering that there is not enough space on the back of the product to print the part 15.19a(3) statement, they hope to add this information in the manual to replace.

Please refer the label and manual to check.

Could you accept this FCC ID location and print the part 15.19a(3) statement in the manual to replace on the product body?

Looking forward to receiving your reply,
thanks.

Dear Sir

Due to the size, appearance, shape and shell material of the product:
The applicant silk prints the FCC ID certification number on the battery cover, and consumers can unscrew the battery cover to replace the battery (A 3.0V button battery powers), instead of USB power; It is recommended to replace the battery and close the back cover firmly to ensure that the performance monitor remains water resistant, because without the battery cover, the product casing would not be complete.

Could you accept this FCC ID location?
Looking forward to receiving your reply, thanks.
