

FAA Letter

The lab was advised by the FAA that they don't need to wait for the FAA letter to the FCC in order to apply, nor do they need to supply the FAA letter to the FCC.

The FAA also stated that "in CFR .87.147.d) (2), the FCC will not take final action until receiving the FAA "no Objection" letter.

The fact is that the FAA sends everything; Letter to FCC and copy to manufacture at the same time, so the lab would find out when the FCC does."
