

PCB for testing (Transmitter WDT)

Since the actual product (below photo) can not be designed necessary setting or operation for testing, the test was performed with the PCB which has the interface board set for the test.

About the both PCB, since RF module parts circled by red is the same between PCB for testing and the actual product, we judged the same result could be got on Conducted measurement test.

The actual product (Transmitter WDT)