

Modulate it to cut-off frequency of 2.4GHZ after collecting the function signal on the TX plate , lanuch it through antenna after power amplification. Rx plate receives the modulated high-frequency signal, then it changes into IF signal through low noise amplification system, remove the function signal through the frequency discriminator after IF amplification, then drives the motor work after power amplification.